2. The European Union Institutions.

¹ All references to Treaty articles in this syllabus are to the Treaties as amended, repealed, replaced and renumbered by the Treaty of Lisbon; i.e. to the TEU and to the TFEU as renumbered.

Candidates will be expected to have a detailed knowledge of the role, powers and mode of election/appointment of: the European Parliament (including its relationship with national parliaments and the democratic principles upon which the European Union is now expressly stated to be based pursuant Title II of the amended TEU (see Articles 9 to 12 TEU); the European Council, the Council of the European Union, and the European Commission. Special emphasis will be placed on: (a) the legislation-making processes in the European Union and the importance of legal basis; (b) the concepts of institutional balance and attributed/conferred powers and the other principles set out in Article 5 TEU; and (c) EU international relations law with particular emphasis on the external competence of the EU and the conclusion of international agreements by the EU.

3. A Union/Community governed by the rule of law.

The jurisdiction and powers of the Court of Justice (re-named the Court of Justice of the European Union under the Treaty of Lisbon) and comprising within the EU legal hierarchy the Court of Justice and the General Court (formerly the Court of First Instance prior to the Treaty of Lisbon), as well the Civil Service Tribunal and such other specialised courts as may be established (see Articles 251 to 257 TFEU: formerly Articles 221 to 225a EC: note, there was no EC Treaty equivalent to Article 255 TFEU). Candidates should pay specific attention to Articles 258 to 260 TFEU and Articles 260, 263, 265, 267, 268-269, 277 and 340 TFEU (formerly Articles 226, 227, 228, 230, 232, 234, 235, 241, 243 and 288 EC: note, there was no EC Treaty equivalent to Article 269 TFEU), the Statute of the Court of Justice, and with particular reference to:

- a) Judicial review of acts of the Union institutions;
- b) Infringement actions against Member States for failure to comply with their obligations;
- b) Cooperation between national courts and the Court of Justice in the preliminary reference procedure; references on interpretation and validity of EU law.

4. The Nature of EU law, in particular its relationship with national law and the reception of EU law in Irish law:

- a) The direct effect and supremacy of EU law and related doctrines, including the obligation of consistent/harmonious interpretation (indirect effect) and incidental effect;
 - b) National procedural autonomy and its limits; State liability in damages for breaches of EU law;
 - c) The status of EU law in the national legal systems, in particular the status of EU framework decisions and decisions;
 - d) National Constitutional provisions particularly Article 29(4) of the Constitution, as amended, Acts of the Oireachtas and Statutory Instruments necessary to implement EC law in Ireland, including in particular the European Communities Acts 1972-2012, the attitude towards and receptiveness of Irish courts to the application of EU law, as well as the use of the preliminary reference procedure by Irish courts.
5. Substantive rules governing the Free Movement of Goods (with a particular focus on case-law) to include:
- a) Article 110 TFEU (formerly Article 90 EC);
 - b) Articles 34, 35 & 36 TFEU (formerly Articles 28, 29 & 30 EC);
 - c) Articles 28, 29 & 30 TFEU (formerly Articles 23, 24 & 25 EC);
 - d) Regulating the internal market, with particular emphasis on harmonisation-legislation and the scope of Article 114 TFEU (formerly Article 95 EC).
6. Substantive rules governing Free Movement of Persons, Services and the Freedom of Establishment, with a particular focus on the Treaty (Article 18 TFEU (formerly Article 12 EC) and Articles 45 to 66 and 75 TFEU (formerly Articles 39 to 61 EC) and relevant case-law to include:
- a) Freedom of Movement of Workers;
 - b) Freedom of Establishment;
 - c) Freedom to provide and to receive Services
 - d) Freedom of Movement of Capital and Payments;
- Limitations on the above freedoms both under the Treaty and under the imperative requirements case-law of the Court of Justice.

7. Union citizenship, particularly under Article 18 TFEU and Articles 20 to 25 TFEU, Directive 2004/38/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 29 April 2004 on the right of citizens of the Union and their family members to move and reside freely within the territory of the Member States (as it may be amended from time to time) and the relevant case-law of the Court of Justice.
8. EU Competition Law - a detailed understanding will be required of Articles 101-102 TFEU (formerly Articles 81-82 EC) and of their application. A detailed knowledge is also expected of the enforcement of EC Competition Law and the procedures followed in its enforcement at European and national levels, and in particular of Council Regulation (EC) No. 1/2003 of 16 December 2002 on the implementation of the rules of competition laid down in Articles 81 and 82 of the Treaty (now Articles 101 and 102 TFEU, and as Regulation 1/2003 may be amended from time to time).
9. Public undertakings, revenue-producing monopolies and undertakings granted special and exclusive rights under Article 106 TFEU (formerly Article 86 EC) and the relationship with Articles 101-102 TFEU as developed in the relevant case-law, with particular reference to Member State obligations under Articles 4(3) TEU (formerly Article 10 EC) and 101-102 TFEU in combination with Article 106 TFEU and Article 14 TFEU (formerly Article 16 EC) and case-law developed principles concerning services of general economic interest. Candidates should also specifically note Protocol (No 26) on Services of General Interest to the Treaty of Lisbon.

Constitutional Law

Although Constitutional Law is primarily an academic subject, the FE-1 exam will require candidates to consider the way in which constitutional principles might apply to factual situations. As practitioners are most likely to encounter Constitutional Law in the context of litigation, there will be a number of problem questions on the paper.

Candidates will be expected to show knowledge and, crucially, understanding of the constitutional caselaw of the Irish courts. To this end, candidates should demonstrate the ability to critically analyse, discuss and apply the principles of Irish Constitutional Law. It is recommended that candidates directly read the decisions of the courts rather than exclusively relying on secondary summaries.

An up-to-date knowledge of the decisions of the Superior Courts will also be required. Areas of relatively recent consideration will be particularly important.

The major topics (which are not exhaustive) include:

- ◆ Constitutional Interpretation
- ◆ Locus standi
- ◆ Judicial Review
- ◆ Justiciability
- ◆ Habeas corpus
- ◆ Separation of Powers
- ◆ Emergency Powers
- ◆ The President
- ◆ The Attorney General
- ◆ The election and referenda provisions
- ◆ Enumerated personal rights
- ◆ Unenumerated personal rights
- ◆ Socio-economic rights
- ◆ The Family
- ◆ The Courts and the administration of justice
- ◆ The Executive
- ◆ The Oireachtas
- ◆ Constitutional justice
- ◆ Consequences of a declaration of unconstitutionality

- ◆ The impact of the European Convention of Human Rights Act 2003 on constitutional issues.

Candidates are permitted to take an unmarked copy of the Constitution into the examination.
